Every Child has an inner timetable for growth-a pattern unique to him... growth is not steady, forward upward progression. It is instead a switchback trail; three steps forward, two back, one around the bushes, and a few simple standings, before another forward leap

Covid

The CDC has not changed daycares guidelines as of yet.

So parents and children still need to quarantine for ten days. In the scenario that it is a parent that is exposed or sick, they will need to get tested or quarantine for their ten days, and then either wait 2-3 days and test the child OR have the child quarantine for their ten days before returning to care. If it is the child who is exposed, they will need to either get tested in a timely manner or quarantine for 10 days. We know that the time frame is frustrating and hard on families, but this is the requirement we are given by the CDC and state as a licensed childcare.

Valentine's Day

Valentine's day lands on Monday this year, and we plan on having the party on that exact day. Children and staff will wear something pink, purple, or red; if the children wish not to participate in the color scheme, that is perfectly fine. We will be handing out valentines; please have the children bring a bag or box of some form to hold their valentines that they will get to color and decorate with stickers. We will have a special snack and enjoy a small Valentine's day show or movie in the morning.

I know that candy can be a fun item to give out, but a child in our care can not have candy or sugars. We would appreciate it if parents held back from handing out candy or giving another option for that child. We want everyone to have a fun time and not feel left out.
